

The Occupational Hygiene Society of Ireland in collaboration with the Exposure Science research group at the School of Natural Science present a workshop on

General and Local Exhaust Ventilation

10.00am	Tea/Coffee Aula Maxima, Quadrangle Building, University of Galway
10.15am	Welcome address - University of Galway/OHSI President
10.30am	Addressing indoor air quality in the workplace - A framework for employers Darren Arkins, Senior Inspector, Health & Safety Authority; will provide an overview of the recently published H.S.A Code of Practice for Indoor Air Quality
10.55am	Practical implications for Irish businesses of the Code of Practice for Indoor Air Quality Simon Jones, CEO of Air Matters; will share his practical experience on the impact of the new code of practice for Irish business. This will be based on his experience conducting risk assessments under the new code. He will also include the potential impact of this code on homeworking.
11.15am	General Ventilation Principles &amp; Practical Ventilation Demonstration Niek-Jan Bink, ACIN Instruments; Justin Conway, Operations Director, Aereco
12.00pm	An Overview of the BENEFIT Project: Assessing Indoor Environmental Quality in Irish Classrooms and Offices Adam Collison, PhD Candidate, Physics, School of Natural Sciences, University of Galway
12.20pm	Lunch
1.20pm	Local Exhaust Ventilation- the Occupational Hygienist's perspective Mike Slater, University of Manchester
2.00pm	LEV Systems in Irish Workplaces &amp; Practical Demonstration Paul Lacey, Managing Director, P&M LEV Specialists & Thomas Molsen, Managing Partner Geovent A/S
2.45pm	Managing LEV Systems in Industry David Flanagan, Manufacturing Engineering Manager, Medtronic Galway
3.30pm	Close
List of Exhibitors:	ACIN Instruments, P&M LEV, Aereco, CIBSE Ireland, AMON Electronics, University of Galway OEHS postgraduate programmes

ATTENDANCE PRICING: Exhibitors €100 OHSI members €50 Non-Members €70
Registration will be online through the OHSI website: <https://www.ohireland.org/events>